The afternoon tea given yesterday by the ladies of the Methodist church at the parsonage was enjoyed by a large number of guests. A short, but delightful, program was rendered, refreshments were served and games were

Secretary of State Dunbar has sent to County Clerk Clinton a large number of copies of the direct primary law and local option law, and persons interested in the measures may secure copies by calling at Mr. Clinton's office. Both propositions will be submitted to the voters at the coming June election.

The local branch of the Alaska Fishermen's Union has deferred action or the matter of prices until March 28, because of the small attendance at Monday night's meeting. The San Francisco union has compromised with the Alaska Packers and it is now up to the local branch to determine whether or not the San Francisco scale is satis-

The funeral of the late B. C. Kindred will be held this morning at the Hammond Methodist church. The services will take place at 10:30 and Rev. W. Seymour Short will officiate. The interment will be in old Pioneers' cemetary. For the convenience of Astoria friends who desire to attend the funeral the steamer Miler will leave the foot of Fourteenth street at 9:30 a. m.

The county court was in session yesterday and several matters affecting road districts were attended to. During the course of the session the court instructed District Attorney Allen to notify the railroad company that it would have to keep the railroad crossing in repair at the point where the track intersects the county road at Svensen, and that, if the company declined to do so, the district attorney proceed

The dance is being arranged by the following ladies: Mesdames Gus Bartell. Gus Slewerts and Gus Fricke; Misses Ella Messinger, May Thompson, Emma Shedd, Eva Messinger and Stella Yacht.

The session of Pacific lodge, Degree of Honor, Monday night, was an interesting event socially, and the members business of the lodge had been attended the story. o the members sat down to an appetizing lunch provided by Mrs. Henry Spellmier. On Monday Mrs. Spellmier celebrated the 50th anniversary of her birth, and as a token of esteem the lodge presented her with a handsome sofa cushion.

The taking of the testimony offered by the defense in th case of Charlotte Grimberg vs. the Columbia River Packers' Association was finished yesterday, and adjournment was taken by the court until 9:30 this morning, when arguments will be presented. It is probable the case will go to the jury this afternoon. The case of Reid, Murdock & Co. vs. the Alaska Fishermen's Packing Company, a suit for damages, was set for yesterday, but as the Grimberg case was not concluded, the Reid, Murdock case went over. It will be tried as soon as the present case is out of the way.

The Portland primary election takes place today. Both the Simon and Mitchell factions have made every preparation for the battle of ballots and the contest promises to be the warmest ever waged there. For days past all of the papers have been full of political advertising matter, which has cost the politicians a pretty penny something like $100 a column. Both sides express confidence, but it is almost a certainty the Mitchellites will win out. During the past few days several Simon men have been down from the metropolis, and all conceded that the Simon faction's chance of success was rather a slim one. Several residents of Multnomah county who nome for the express purpose of voting

There was a conflict of authority yesterday between the justice's court officials and the police court, but the tangle was straightened out during the afternoon. The conflict resulted from the trouble between J. H. Anson, proprictor of the Nehalem house, and Joe Marida, the logger, who had attacked Anson with a knife. Anson swore to a warrant in the police court and Marida was arrested by the police, but released upon depositing $20 bail. Yesterday morning Anson swore to a second complaint before Justice Goodman. When the two principals were got together in the justice's court it was suggested that they amicably adjust their defferences and It was agreed beween them that Marida should pay for the damage he had done to the furniture at the house. The sum was to be fixed by a gentleman namd by both the contestants. The arbiter decided that $7.50 would cover the matter and Marida was taxed the costs, an equal sum. Meantime, however, the police court warrant stood against him, and for a time it seemed Marida would be compelled to appear before Judge Anderson. However, when the police judge learned of the justice's court settlement, he turned Marida loose. The police court, while a city institution, has equally as great functions as the justice's court, and could iry cases which might more properly come before the justice's court.

The Portland Chamber of Commerce vesterday acted with vigor regarding the hung-up improvement of the lower Columbia river and the bar, and through Secretary Daniel Connell the following telegram was sent to Senators Mitchell and Fulton at the national capital: "In view of the important necessity of commerce in regard to the lower river and bar, the suggestion is made that you see that an appropriation is provided for in the emergency bill."

The time for payment of taxes under the 3 per cent rebate arrangement expired at 5 last night, and, while the roll will still be open to taxpayers until the date on which taxes will become delinquent, property owners will not be entitled to the rebate. The amount collected to date is relatively below that collected up to March 15 last year. This circumstance has been due to the failure of timber land owners to make the usual prompt settlement.

That the grand jury now sitting will shortly return indictments by the wholesale against those conducting gambling houses in Portland is the conviction of those who profess to have gained knowledge of the plans of that body. Not only will the gamblers be arrested and brought before the courts of justice on charges of violating the law, but it is said the scope of the grand jury's power will encompass those who own property upon which Portland's numerous gambling resorts are operated. Whispers of what the grand jury is doing are heard upon every side, and the fact that during the last week a number of anti-gambling men were summoned before the grand jury for the evident purpose of being examined upon this greatly enjoyed themselves.
